My Dream of Peace

Nowadays, children, adults, even countries always have arguments easily, but why do they have to argue? Maybe it is only because of something minor or a misunderstanding.

To be more peaceful, I think that people should be more considerate, so that it can decrease the opportunity of having arguments. As a result, I think that peace really is very important for us, so I have many dreams for peace.

At school, students should behave well and not fight. Teachers and students should talk to each other, so they will have a better relationship.

For families, some people may have problems with their family members, such as money or assets problems. Therefore, their relationship will be strained. To avoid these problems, we should always be honest to all our relatives and keep our promises.

Within the neighbourhood, we can chat together and help each other, when we are in need. During festivals or some special activities, we can also celebrate and spend time together. As a result, we can live in a warm, peaceful atmosphere.

In society, people can share their opinions with each other and discuss what the best method is together.

Between countries, different presidents can consult each other during conferences. If they can think of a result that is profitable to both sides, we can prevent wars.

In my mind, I think that peace is a major key for world progress. If there is no peace, people will not be happy, generous and friendly. Then, everyone becomes greedy and just thinks about themselves.

Actually, if we want to be peaceful, it is not difficult. The only thing that we have to do is to share our comments with others, and also listen and try to accept others.

Lastly, I hope that our world can be peaceful, and people can be cheerful all the time!
